new president & ceo
BOBBI QUINTAVELL

Announcing Incoming President and CEO

Sitnasuak Native Corporation (SNC) is pleased to announce Ms. Roberta “Bobbi” Quintavell has been selected as the new President and CEO. Ms. Quintavell will start the position on May 8, 2017. She joins SNC with strong leadership skills and successful executive experiences that merge corporate priorities with community service. Ms. Quintavell is Iñupiaq and originally from Utqiagvik.

“It is a distinct privilege to be selected by the Sitnasuak Board of Directors. I am looking forward to working with the board to advance the businesses, while remaining grounded in our values and upholding our cultural sustainability,” said Ms. Quintavell.

Over the past 20 years, Ms. Quintavell has contributed her expertise in helping Alaska Native corporations and their subsidiaries grow in shareholder equity and operational profitability by establishing financial controls, formalizing business processes, aggressively pursuing acquisitions, and building teams of highly skilled and forward-thinking leaders. Over the course of her career she has served as executive director of Arctic Slope Native Association, president/CEO of Arctic Slope Regional Corporation (ASRC) Constructors and ASRC Construction Holding Company, president/CEO and board member of ASRC and as chief operating officer of Doyon Limited. Ms. Quintavell has also served on the boards of various nonprofits including the Alaska Federation of Natives, Alaska Municipal League and Rasmuson Foundation. She received a bachelor’s degree in business administration from the University of Alaska Anchorage and graduated with an executive master’s in business administration from the Harvard Graduate School of Business. Ms. Quintavell has two daughters and will be working in Sitnasuak’s Anchorage office.

Board Chairman Bobby Evans said, “The Board of Directors is excited to begin this next chapter in Sitnasuak’s history. CEO Richard Strutz is committed to assisting in this transition as he plans to retire by the end of May. We see our new President and CEO Bobbi Quintavell adding to the corporation’s success and working seamlessly with our current management and staff. Ms. Quintavell brings great talents and backgrounds in Alaska business and Alaska Native corporations. We welcome her to SNC and our family of businesses. SNC is continuing to draw great talent and we look forward to introducing Ms. Quintavell to our shareholders and community partners.”

CEO Richard Strutz said, “We have made a lot of headway in the last few years. I am looking forward to this transition with Bobbi that will continue to help make Sitnasuak a better company.”

letter from

THE PRESIDENT & CEO

Congratulations to Mitch Seavey for winning the 2017 Iditarod, as well as to all the mushers for a successful journey to the finish in Nome. Congratulations also to all the teams in the 2017 Lonnie O'Connor Iditarod Basketball Classic, all the artists in the Nome Arts Council 2017 Iditarod Art Show, all the racers in the 2017 Nome Golovin Snow Machine Race and many others who participated in the festivities held during the month of March to celebrate Iditarod. Quyaana to all our shareholders, community members and organizations for volunteering and assisting with activities – it truly takes a village to host a successful Iditarod and proudly host the many teams and visitors.

As spring begins, I want to wish all success in hunting, fishing and harvesting – from crab and seals to rabbits and caribou. Our community is blessed with traditional resources that support our Native way of life. We honor our hunters and gathers for replenishing our foods and providing for our Elders, families and communities. Our culture and connection to our lands sustain our people with respect for the environment and abilities to provide healthy resources for our future.

As we enter 2017, our corporation is working on growing our businesses with customers. We are blessed with dedicated employees, board members and shareholders to advance a strong community with economic development that honors our heritage, lands and resources. Sitasuak operations in 2016 produced revenues of $130 million that supported shareholder dividends and another special Elders' dividend. We are anticipating challenges in the coming year with the state budget issues that presents a difficult economic environment. Our management is prepared with strategies to both realize efficiencies and take advantage of opportunities to best serve our customers and shareholders. Our connection to our values, employees and customers sustain our corporation to earn resources for our future. Working together, we can continue sharing our success with dividends, employment opportunities, scholarships and donations.

In closing, I want to recognize Richard Mussaq Dyson, vice president of human resources, for his many contributions to the corporation and wish him well in retirement that was effective April 7, 2017. Quyaana to all our directors and employees for the ongoing commitment to our corporation. I wish all shareholders success in the coming year and I look forward to our annual meeting of shareholders.

message from THE CHAIRMAN

Hello Fellow Shareholders,

Greetings from Nome! The days are getting longer and I see people in Nome enjoying the beautiful weather by going for drives on our roads, getting their last snow machine rides in and just being outside. We all love the spring; it is a time for new beginnings and new hope.

Just as the snow melts and our rivers begin to flow, Sitasuak is also awakening to a new revitalization. This winter, our board of directors combined our president and CEO positions, moving back to the corporate structure that existed prior to 2009. Through this leadership reorganization we will have one executive that reports directly to our board of directors. This reorganization improves reporting relationships and establishes a traditional corporate structure we feel will best serve our corporation and shareholders.

Our current CEO Richard Strutz is scheduled to retire May 31, 2017, and will be replaced by incoming President and CEO Bobbi Quintavell. We wholeheartedly thank Mr. Strutz for his five years with SNC. His leadership was instrumental in improving our corporation, and he leaves us well prepared for the coming years. We wish Mr. Strutz and his family the very best. As part of our leadership reorganization, Mr. Michael Orr assumed the new role of senior vice president of Alaska operations. In addition to oversight of the land, shareholder and foundation departments, Mr. Orr will focus on Alaska business operations, to include the financial services and petroleum distribution subsidiaries. We thank Mr. Orr for his hard work in improving operations. Mr. Orr will assist our new president and CEO during this leadership transition.

We now introduce our President and CEO Ms. Bobbi Quintavell! Bobbi has a wealth of experience, including serving in executive leadership roles for several Alaska Native corporations and subsidiaries. No doubt will her knowledge and skill set continue SNC's course for success.

Another new beginning for SNC is the 44th Annual Meeting of Shareholders held in Anchorage. Today we have more shareholders in the Municipality of Anchorage 753 than in the City of Nome 692. We also have 128 shareholders residing in the Matanuska-Susitna Borough. Hosting our Annual Meeting in Anchorage will allow us to involve a greater number of shareholders in the governance of our corporation.

Other changes afoot include a brand new look for Sitasuak. A couple of years ago, the board and executive leadership engaged with a professional

At the request of the board, we formed a communications committee comprised of board members, shareholders and staff to guide the brand development process, and ensure the new look supports

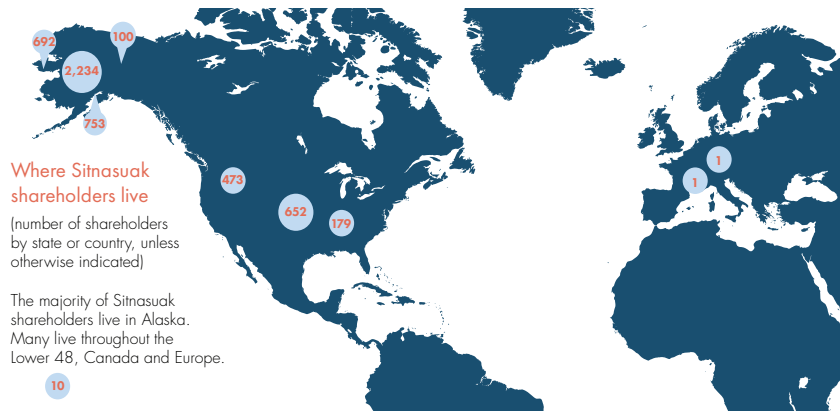

SNC's focus to provide for present and future shareholders, ensure economic stability, support social responsibility and advocate for the sustainability of our environment. We couldn't be more pleased with the result, and we hope you enjoy the materials as they begin to roll out on social media, in the annual report and at the upcoming annual meeting.

We thank all shareholders for your continued support; by working together we can do great things.

EXPANDING OUR REACH

Sitnasuak Construction Services, LLC Growing in New Markets

Sitnasuak Construction Services (SCS) is responding to the downturn in the Alaska's construction market by developing work opportunities outside the state and executing projects successfully in new locations. As a "Value Added Provider," SCS is successfully delivering projects in Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Guam in addition to the State of Alaska. Our track record of excellent customer service with our federal customers is driving this expansion. Why? Because they trust us to get the job done no matter the geographic, logistic or contractual challenges.

Currently, SCS has proposals under review with the U.S. Army, the U.S. Coast Guard, the U.S. Navy and the U.S. Corps of Engineers for work in Alaska, the Lower 48 and the Pacific. As SCS is selected to perform work in new and remote locations, we draw on our understanding of unique construction constraints, remote site project management, customer service and our trust in local experts to meet our client's needs.

As opportunities increase, our commitment to shareholders remains strong. We are striving to increase our network of shareholder-owned businesses and skilled workers all over the country and beyond to ensure we bring together teams that understand the work, believe in our values, and work with the benefit of Sitnasuak first.

Challenging times require agility, trust and innovation. The SCS team welcomes challenges as opportunities to grow in new markets and increase our knowledge. Honoring our core values, staying true to our ethics and remembering that our first customer is Sitnasuak, will bring us success, even in uncertain times.

RICH DYSON & BEST WISHES IN RETIREMENT

Sitnasuak Vice President of Human Resources Richard Mussaq Dyson retired on April 7. Mr. Dyson has been part of the SNC leadership team for the past six years. He has helped with the development of the Shareholder Executive Leadership Program (SELP) and recruited for many key staff positions.

"I am proud to have been part of this great team and to contribute to the human resource growth of the corporation. There are many great employees who are making significant differences in our businesses. I am very grateful to have worked with the corporation and to further the department and its human resource programs to best serve shareholders, businesses and communities," said Dyson.

"Having worked with and for Alaska Native corporations for many years, I strongly believe in providing opportunities for shareholders, maximizing their return on investments and helping to preserve their lands. I will continue to hold dear the very special relationships I have established while working at SNC."

President and CEO Richard Strutz said, "It has been my pleasure to work closely with Mr. Dyson. I appreciate his contributions to our corporation, businesses and employees. Richard is a true asset and will be missed. We thank him for his service and wish him well in retirement."

Mr. Dyson has been mentoring Cameron Piscoya for leadership in the human resource department for a successful transition through the succession plan he established nearly three years ago.

Quyaana, Mussaq!

CAREER OPPORTUNITIES

Sitnasuak Native Corporation and its subsidiaries are always looking for talented, motivated and innovative individuals to join our staff. We believe that the core of any organization is its people and we continue to make great strides in recruiting and building a pool of first-class talent.

anmaluq vincent pikonganna MEMORIAM

Sitnasuak Native Corporation Shareholder Mr. Anmaluq Vincent Pikonganna passed away in Nome on December 18, 2016.

Mr. Pikonganna was born in Nome (Sitnasuak) July 5, 1948, and was raised on King Island (Ugiuvak). He moved with his family to Nome in 1960 at the age of 12. Pikonganna's first language was Iñupiaq, and he grew up learning a variety of traditions from hunting to ivory carving. Pikonganna was an Iñupiaq hunter, artist, ivory carver, drummer and dancer. He openly shared his cultural knowledge with the community to support the continuation of our Iñupiaq values, practices and traditions. According to a KNOM 2012 interview, Pikonganna said, "I turned my life towards our culture – our way of life – it was what I wanted to learn. I learned to pay close attention to our Elders; what they were teaching and passing down to us."

Pikonganna was a tribal member of King Island Native community, and a shareholder of Sitnasuak and Bering Straits Native corporations. At the time of his passing, he was serving on the Sitnasuak Elders Committee as an advisory member and on the Sitnasuak Foundation as a board member. Pikonganna not only gave valuable input to the corporation, but also guiding advice that was grounded in culture and tradition.

Pikonganna is survived by his wife Betsy, their grandchildren Valerie and Miranda Kakaruk, whom they raised as their own, and many extended family members.

Sitnasuak respectfully honors Pikonganna's life, his many contributions to the corporation and the community, and expresses condolences to the family.

ETHAN ALLRED MOATS

“AHMASUK,” 24

Ethan Allred Moats “Ahmasuk,” son of Cindy Allred and Victor Moats, is not only an aspiring storyteller, but an inspiring shareholder descendant. As a recipient of the Sitnasuak Foundation Scholarship during his tenure at Fort Lewis College in Durango, Colo., he pursued a degree in theatre and a minor in communications. With his love for the craft of storytelling, Moats believed this was the perfect degree to advance his interests. During his study Moats not only worked in multimedia communications, but did performance and technical work for theatre as well.

After graduating from college, Moats decided he was ready to begin cultivating internal connections by working in the international theatre, and applied for an internship in Arezzo, Italy. This internship provided him with the opportunity to create theatrical sets, create and implement lighting and sound design and outdoor venue set-up.

SITNASUAK FOUNDATION'S (SF) FALL 2017 SCHOLARSHIP DEADLINE IS JUNE 30, 2017

The application is called “CACHE,” which stands for “Combined Application for College and Higher Education.” The application is for individuals going into an accredited college or vocational education program, who meet eligibility requirements outlined by participating organizations, which include: Sitnasuak, BSF, Kawerak, NSEDC and NSHC.

You can fill out your CACHE application online at <https://my-cache.org/>.

For any questions, or to check on the status of your application, please call or email the Sitnasuak Foundation at foundation@snc.org, or call 907-387-1226.

“I enjoyed this immensely. It was hard work, but I learned a lot. I really enjoyed experiencing another culture over a prolonged period. It gave me a new perspective on life,” said Moats. Moats went on to explain his key takeaway from the internship: the necessity of discipline to reach higher realms of possibility when it comes to your professional and personal life. Moats also realized he still has so much to learn as a technical worker in the theatre.

Next steps for Moats include big screen projects; directing movies or commercials that strive to meaningfully impact the future of our culture. With such accomplishments as performing in the Edinburgh Film Festival in Scotland, and hosting a reality television series in Alaska, Moats is successfully working toward those dreams.
